RUSSIAN NATIONAL DRESS.

It Is the Most Beautiful and Picturesque of Any In Europe.

It is well known that of all European national costumes those of the Russians are the most beautiful and picturesque. The sarafan, the woman's gown, is still worn by the empress of Russia and her ladies at court receptions and could not be equaled in beauty by any modern gown. Unfortunately the national costume is now being replaced even among the peasantry by the use of factory products, which are cheaply produced, cheaply bought and soon worn out and replaced by new ones.

Formerly a handsome holiday costume was a possession to be prized and would often be handed down from mother to daughter and sometimes descend to the grandchildren. Neither labor nor expense was spared on these costumes. They were things of beauty, and as the fashions did not change the joy they gave was permanent. Some of these costumes are still in the possession of distinguished families, who long ago ceased to wear the national dress. Many of them have been donated to museums, where, in the ethnological department, artistically executed manikins can be seen, the work of real artists, dressed in exquisite ancient costumes. The present empress dowager has given several complete costumes to the Dashkoff museum in Moscow.

Among the peasants who still wear the national dress the older costumes are handsomer and richer than the modern ones. The style of dress is not the same in all parts of Russia. It differs not only in the several provinces (governments), but there are often three or four different styles in the different parts of the same province. In the main features, however, the costumes remain the same and generally consist of the following articles for a woman's dress:

A linen chemise, or shirt, is worn next to the skin extending down to a little below the knee. The upper part of it, with full sleeves, forms a kind of chemisette and is generally embroidered in red or black or red and blue arranged in geometrical patterns. In holiday costumes the chemise is made of fine linen and the bottom is either embroidered or trimmed with fine lace. Over this is worn the sarafan, a sleeveless gown consisting of a skirt almost reaching the ground and a bodice attached to it with straps across the shoulders. These sarafans are frequently made of fine woolen or silken material of beautiful colors and handsomely trimmed with embroidery or gold and silver braid. An apron, also embroidered, is always worn with the sarafan. In the house a short sleeveless jacket is sometimes worn called dooshegreika (soul warmer). It is made of silk or velvet, embroidered and fur trimmed.

For outdoor use in cold weather a shooba, or fur lined coat, with long sleeves, is worn. It is provided with fur cuffs and collar. The cocoshnick, the headdress of Russian women, is a very elaborate and handsome affair, in shape very much like a crown. It is made of gold or silver cloth and embroidered with pearls and precious stones in the costumes of the rich or with cheap finery, but still very bright, in those of the poorer classes. These headdresses are exceedingly becoming to the round, full faces of the Russian women and are worn principally by the maidens. The married women generally cover the cocoshnick with a silk kerchief. On the feet stockings and leather shoes of different kinds are worn, sometimes maroon slippers embroidered with gold.—Washington Times.

A Member of the Force.

"A good many amusing incidents came out in our first examination of the police," says Colonel John W. Ela, the apostle of local civil service reform. "I recall one incident which struck me as being particularly funny. We were putting one of the patrolmen through, and the big fellow fumed and fretted and perspired as if he were actually in the sweatbox. At last I asked him this question, 'What is a felony?'

"The poor fellow looked stunned for a moment or two, but finally there came an expression of returning reason into his eyes, and in a triumphant tone he answered, 'A t'ing on the t'umb!'"—Chicago Record.

The Englishman's Question.

The latest story of the average Englishman's notion of the size of our country comes from Wakefield, where a visiting Briton mounted the observatory on the grounds of his host and surveyed the landscape o'er. The White mountains were pointed out to him in the deep distance, and then he asked, "And which way from here are the Rocky mountains?"—Boston Transcript.

Apprehensive.

Another—I am sure I should dye right off.—Philadelphia Record.

Skye Natives.

A Scottish paper says that the natives of Skye now use knives to spread their butter, but that one old lady declines to go to parties where she is not allowed, according to the old habit of the island, to spread her butter with her thumb. Another inhabitant of the island was heard declaring to a friend that having sold his horse he must now get a wife to do the tillage.

—Lee county supervisors will meet tomorrow.

—DeWitt Orvis was home from Chicago over Sunday.

—The newspapers are making a great fuss over the fact that ex-Speaker Reed rides a bicycle, just as though it was a matter of too great skill for a great man.

—Mahan & Maddick are doing the mason work, and Slane & Missman the carpenter work on Jas. Carney's new $2500 residence on Highland avenue.

—The Oregon Republican suggests to the Ogle county editors that they hold a picnic and invite the editors of Lee and other adjoining counties to join them. Better not, neighbors. We might accept and take our appetites with us.

—When we see the little one-legged boy, Martin Gannon, make such excellent time on his bicycle the idea impresses itself upon our mind, what a blessing is the wheel to the unfortunate so crippled. Here now comes a statement that Miss Minnie Harmon of DeKalb has but one leg, but she rides the bicycle to perfection, surprising beholders with the grace and ease shown mounting her wheel and managing it. She challenges the best riders to race.

—It was just a score of years since Captain William Ritson and Miss Hattie Davis were married at the bride's home in this city, corner of First and Hennepin, therefore it is very appropriate that they are now given a silver wedding surprise at their home in Sterling. The affair takes place this evening, when there will be a reception, and many of their Dixon friends are invited by their daughter, Miss Mamie, who has charge of the affair. Mrs. Ritson is a daughter of the late Mr. J. Wellington and Mrs. Hannah Davis, old settlers of Dixon.

THE SULTAN AT DINNER.

He Eats Alone and Spends $5,000 a Day on His Table.

By far the most extravagant dinner in the world is the sultan of Turkey. His table expenses foot up to $5,000 a day, or $1,825,000 a year. It is the most expensive table and household in all probability that any country has ever seen. The old Romans used to spend vast sums on single meals, the equivalent of $50,000 being a drop in the bucket when their emperors used to dine foreign potentates, but the sultan expends all this money on himself. He is not a sociable man and very rarely has guests or visitors.

He does not even have a dining room or dining hall. Turkish custom among the higher classes is for servants to bring the meals to wherever the diners may be, and in the palace of Stamboul the menials at the dinner hour first search out his majesty and then in long procession bring the banquet, table and all.

The table is a silver one and perhaps the most exquisite table that has ever been made. It precedes the procession, borne in upon the shoulders of lower grade servants. Following come a long line of jublakiars, who are cook's assistants. On the heads of these orientals are large tablets on which the platters are placed. Such a perfect balance do the jublakiars keep that an accident, the breaking of a dish, has never been known.

The waiters (sofiadgis) lift the platters from the tablets and present each dish to his majesty, bowing low. The dishes are covered and sealed with the imperial seal, which is put on in the kitchen by the grand vizier, the idea being that the sultan may be certain that his food has not been poisoned or tampered with.

All at once the dishes are set upon the table, vegetables, meats, ices and confitures being arranged in front of his royal highness without any regard to courses or ordinary dinner regulations. The whole repast is before his majesty. He runs his eye over the many viands. Then he picks and chooses, eating the whole simultaneously, a pick here and a bite there, a mouthful of meat, a spoonful of ice, a sweet cake and a tiny ball of fish.

It all seems strange to a man who finishes his soup before he tackles anything else, but the sultan seems to enjoy it. He is a total abstainer, and never has wine set on the table at any time. At state dinners the people that get a chance to drink the rare vintages provided are those seated at other than the imperial board.—New York World.

Ended With a Pun.

The Washington Star cites what it calls another instance of woman's skill in having the last word.

"The ostrich is a foolish bird," a gentleman was saying. "When it sees an enemy coming, it sticks its head into the sand instead of running away."

"Oh, well," said his wife, "that's its nature."

"I know it. But just the same it isn't logical."

"Oh, yes, it is, my dear!"

"How do you make that out?"

"It's ornithological."

PIT IS THEIR TOMB

Thirty Men Imprisoned in a Mine Incendiary by Fire.

EVERY ONE IS DOUBTLESS DEAD.

Flames Break Out in the Osceola Copper Mine at Near Calumet, Mich.

Heartrending Scenes at the Mouth of the Burning Shaft—Smoke Fills the Drifts and Makes Rescue Impossible—Dead Men the Victims Principally of Their Own Unbelief of Danger—Though Warned They Fail to Appreciate Their Peril Until It Is Too Late—Names of the Lost.

HOUGHTON, Mich., Sept. 9.—Huge volumes of smoke are still issuing forth from the mouths of shafts Nos. 1, 2 and 3, which shows that the awful fire which started in the Osceola copper mine shortly before noon Saturday is still raging fiercely, and the bodies of the thirty miners entombed are still lying somewhere below the surface, without a doubt dead, suffocated by smoke and gas. The names of the lost so far as can be ascertained at this writing are: Captain Richard Trenbath, shift boss; Richard Bickle, Richard Grenfell, William Bryant, Alexander Daniell, John Cudlip, Thomas Curtis, Robert Johns, William Donald, Barney Elmore, Anton Zycezwicz, Mike Johnson, Peter Stengaard, Frank Lander, Walter Dahl, Joseph Harrington, Frederick Peardon, Isaac Harlow, Mike Voke, Isaac Mattison, Andrew Rossawick, James Wins, M. Cook, Samuel Williams and five Poles whose names are unknown at headquarters.

Would Not Believe Their Danger.

The fire broke out at the twenty-seventh level of the Osceola copper mine, located two miles from Calumet. As Captain Richard Edwards was making his way to No. 3 shaft he smelled wood burning, but some of the miners working in the levels there would not believe there was fire in the mine, as they could not smell any smoke or hear flames crackling. On nearing No. 3 shaft Captain Edwards met Captain Trenbath and a party of men who were looking for the fire, and on reaching the shaft they found a large quantity of logging on fire. Captain Trenbath and a party of men were left to fight the fire below, while Captain Edwards went to the surface to get a hose, but when he returned he found that the smoke had made an up draft instead of a down, and in consequence he had to come back to the surface as fast as possible.

Bereaved Besiege the Pitmouth.

Word was immediately sent to the men in the mine for all to come to the surface, which most of them succeeded in doing, but there still remain in the dry house thirty suits of clothes. The scene at the Opeeche shaft, where many of the men came up, was heartrending, thousands having gathered around the mouth of this shaft, many women and children standing around looking for their husbands and fathers. Searching parties were sent down in Nos. 1 and 2 shafts to try and reach the men from the drifts leading to No. 3 shaft above the twenty-seventh level, but they were unsuccessful.

Rescuers Have to Fly for Life.

Captain P. Richards, with a gang of seven men, went down No. 5 shaft and went about 700 feet toward No. 4 shaft when they had to turn and flee for their lives on account of the smoke and gas. Some of these men were very nearly overcome, only reaching the surface in time to save their lives. It is learned that the place where the fire caught was the worst place it could have caught in the whole mine, and the only place in the mine where fire of any extent could have caught. Many of the men that were working several levels below the twenty-seventh, at which point the fire caught, were seen as far up as the eighteenth level, working their way up. Several of the men who escaped claim to have passed others on the ladders, who were unable to proceed further on account of being overcome with smoke and gas.

NEARLY THREW THEIR LIVES AWAY.

Miners Who Stopped to Eat Lunch in the Face of a Fiery Death.

Charles Weare, a drill boy, went to the bottom of the burning shaft and told the miners of their danger. They did not think it was so bad, and some of them came up the ladders to the seventeenth level, where they thought they would have time to eat lunch. They were there only three minutes when the smoke became intensely dense. Michael Harrington took out some matches to relight the candles which had gone out, but the oxygen had been consumed and the candles would not burn. Groping their way in the dark they went up about 200 feet more, when they lost hope, but one of the miners, crawling on hands and knees, reached the bell wire and signalled to lower the skip. By the sound they knew when it was near and signalled for it to stop. Then they climbed into it and rang for the engineer to hoist. They reached the surface almost suffocated.

One old miner over 60 years of age picked up a young man who was overcome by the gas and succeeded in carrying him from 200 to 300 feet, when he felt his strength giving out and he had to drop the young fellow to reach surface barely alive himself. At the time the alarm was sounded over 200 men were underground, and all could have escaped had they used proper precautions. Several miners in their flight passed a group of seven or eight men who had stopped to rest and were smoking their pipes. They seemed to be in no hurry or think of danger. When told to hurry to the surface they remarked that they had plenty of time, and not one of them reached the surface.

The skips were kept running up and down all day Saturday in order to give any of the entombed miners a chance to to escape, if they could reach the skip alive, but none came up. Another attempt will be made to reach the men. There is no danger of the bodies being burnt, as it is generally thought that the men escaped from the burning shaft to some of the drifts leading to other shafts, and were overcome by gas and smoke before they could reach a place of safety.

This being the case the bodies will be recovered as soon as the fire is gotten under control and the gases leave the mine. All hope has been given up by the officials of ever rescuing any of the men alive.

Captain P. Richards says that he is positive the fire is of incendiary origin. He does not think that a fire could have originated where it did unless it had been willfully lighted.

DISASTER ON A RAILWAY.

A Dozen Persons Seriously Hurt and Another Dozen Bruised and Scratched.

CHEROKEE, Kan., Sept. 9.—Further particulars of the wreck of the westbound passenger train on the Cherokee branch of the Memphis railroad have been obtained. Twenty persons were more or less hurt. The wreck occurred at Lightning creek, about a mile west of Monmouth, and was caused by the breaking of an axle on the rear coach. The breakdown occurred at a point 400 feet from a bridge. The accident caused the cars to pitch and rock so badly that when the bridge was reached the whole structure gave way, thus precipitating the cars into the stream below. The front coach followed the baggage car into the stream and rested partly upon the baggage car, which kept it from sinking into the water. The smoking car turned completely over and is now lying bottom up in the creek.

The passengers who had been but slightly hurt broke in the windows and pulled the women and wounded men out. The wounded were taken to Fort Scott on a special train sent to the scene of the wreck. Those who were able to be moved have been sent to their homes. Among those most seriously injured are: Mrs. E. Stewart, McCune, arm lacerated; Miss Moore, Webb City, Mo., head bruised; Mrs. A. R. Harper, Monmouth, shoulder lacerated and arm cut; John Gregg, McCune, shoulder dislocated; Rev. L. L. Bramhill, McCune, badly bruised and nearly drowned; Lizzie Bradley, Cherokee, hip dislocated; Henry B. Ford, Pittsburg, Kas., arm broken; Mrs. Reynolds, Cherokee, internal injuries; Miss Eva Baird, Deland, Fla., internal injuries; Jerry Botkin, Cherokee, jaw dislocated; W. F. Homer, Kansas City, arm broken. A dozen others were painfully scratched and bruised.

MASONIC TEMPLE FIRE-SCOURGED.

Two Stories of the Boston Masons' Building Gutted—Loss $300,000.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—Masonic Temple, which a week ago was resplendent with decorations on the occasion of the Knight Templars' conclave, is now a scene of desolation and destruction wrought by fire, which gutted the two upper stories. Owing to accident a false alarm was rung in from the Parker House, and a delay of nearly twenty minutes occurred before the fire department was ready to work at the Masonic Temple. The fire in the meantime had gained considerable headway. The fire was first discovered in the ante-room of the Revere lodge on the third floor, and in a short time had eaten its way to the fourth floor and from thence to the roof.

After an hour and a half the fire was under control. The third and fourth floors and the roof were gutted, while on the second floor the fire had scorched a number of rooms in the rear. The loss is estimated at from $150,000 to $400,000, but no reliable estimate can be obtained until after the underwriters have done their work. All of the regalia of the Scottish rites, one of the most expensive outfits in the Masonic order, was destroyed, and the Gothic hall, Egyptian hall, and Red rooms, with their valuable tapestries and furnishings, were ruined. A number of the valuable paintings were saved. There are twenty-six lodges and commanderies which meet in the Temple, and all of them will sustain some loss. There were three casualties. Chief Egan had a leg broken, his head hurt and is injured internally. Lieutenant Madden had his skull fractured and Fireman Downey was struck on the head with a piece of slate.

CONTEST FOR THE BALL PENNANT.

Chicago Colts Get Down as Far as They Can Go This Trip.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—That Baltimore will fly this year's League base ball pennant is a foregone conclusion; that Cleveland will be second is equally certain, and Philadelphia third. Chicago's "Colts" have finally found rock bottom. They could not get any lower if they were to try, because Washington is 200 points under them. The base ball crank of this city is spending his time crying and cussing. The following table tells the story:

Clubs.	Played.	Won.	Lost.	Per Cent.
Baltimore	109	71	38	.651
Cleveland	117	74	43	.632
Philadelphia	112	67	45	.598
Brooklyn	112	63	49	.562
Boston	110	61	49	.554
New York	112	60	52	.535
Cincinnati	111	59	52	.531
Pittsburg	117	62	55	.529
Chicago	114	58	55	.514
Washington	107	34	73	.317
St. Louis	113	35	78	.309
Louisville	113	29	84	.256

Latest scores made by League clubs are as follows: At Philadelphia—Louisville 2, Philadelphia 8; second game—Louisville 5, Philadelphia 13; at Boston—St. Louis 4, Boston 3; at Pittsburg—Washington 2, Pittsburg 5; second game—Washington 4, Pittsburg 5; at Brooklyn—Cincinnati 8, Brooklyn 7; at Baltimore—Cleveland 4, Baltimore 3; at New York—Rain.

This Mob Evidently Lacked "Nerve."

HURON, S. D., Sept. 9.—Warrants have been issued for the arrest of a dozen or more farmers of Spink, Beadle and Hand counties, charging them with riot. A few nights since a company of masked men took J. R. Casteline, a Hand county rancher, from his home, believing him to have stolen horses. Their intention was to kill him. Several shots were fired and his face was badly burned with powder. The mob then relented.

Gave the Strikers a Surprise.

ISHPEMING, Mich., Sept. 9.—Strikers who attempted to cross the guard line at the Lake Angeline East End mine, where the shovel is in operation, were fired at by the guards. They were requested to halt, but did not do so. The men were surprised and somewhat frightened, and quickly got out of the way.

Murdered and Thrown on the Track.

COLBY, Wis., Sept. 9.—Adolph Fricke, a well-to-do resident of this city, was run over by a train at Abbotsford and the body terrible mangled. At the autopsy a bullet hole was found in his shoulder blade and another in the heart. It is believed he was murdered and thrown on the track.

Killed by a Capsized Coach.

CLIFTON, L. I., Sept. 9.—A coaching party of thirty from New York met with a serious accident in the street here. The coach was overturned and John Lynch, a boy of 15, killed, while eight others were seriously injured.

CUP SAFE ENOUGH.

John Bull Will Not Get That Bullion This Time.

DUNRAVEN'S HOPES GO ALL AGLEY.

How the First Race of the America's Cup Series Was Taken by the Speedy Defender, Notwithstanding That Her Rival Showed Her Heels at the Start—A Bad Couple of Hours for the Friends of the Crack Yankee Boat.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—"The Valkyrie may as well go home," is the belief and expression of opinion in this city among Americans. What the Britishers among us think has not been expressed. The probability is that Valkyrie men are unable to do the subject justice, like the man whose wagon load of potatoes rolled down the hill, just as he had with immense labor got to his horses and himself, reached the top.

LORD DUNRAVEN.

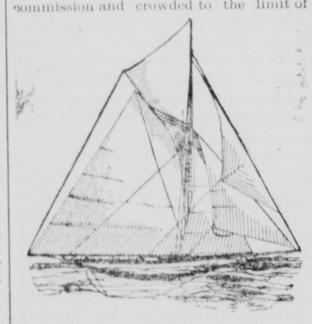

The Valkyrie is for a fact fast in light winds; but they must be very light—about 5 miles an hour. When they are double that the Defender just walks away from her rival. The first race of the series resulted in a victory for the American boat, which got over the course the quickest by 8 minutes and 49 seconds, official time, with allowance counted in.

Move They Cannot Understand.

Whether at the application of Lord Dunraven in the hope that his allowance to the Defender may be lessened or wiped out; or at the application of the New York Yacht club in the belief that the Valkyrie was lightened after her measurement last Friday, cannot be ascertained at this writing, but the fact is that both boats were remeasured yesterday. The suggestion imputing the lightening of the Valkyrie after measurement is all but out of the question; Lord Dunraven is not that sort of man; then also, if that was the suspicion, why remeasure the Defender? The incident has kicked up a whole lot of talk among those who don't know, while those who do are not talking.

First Race of the Series.

But to the first race. To begin with there was a floating city of people to witness it, and the big excursion steamers were up to their old trick of crowding the yachts to some extent. No particular harm was done, however, and the crowding did not probably have any effect on principal result of the race. Everything that could safely carry people over the course in the way of water craft was in commission and crowded to the limit of safety. The race was 15 miles to windward and return; and though won fairly by the Defender it did look for a considerable period in the early part of the race as though the English boat was the better and would cross the finishing line first. Never in the history of the races for the cup has the foreign boat shown to such great advantage as did Valkyrie.

Valkyrie Does the Best Windward Work.

She got over the line first and for a long time pointed higher and outfooted the American boat. Many were the tears shed by the Yankee sharps who had been counting on three straight victories for the Defender, when they saw the Briton, even when well pitched up in the wind and sailing probably from a half point to a point higher than the Defender, still going through the water faster ahead; and this, too, when the Defender had the windward position. It was only 46 seconds after the starting gun was fired, at 12:20, that the Valkyrie crossed the line. The Defender on her opponent's weather quarter, was only 4 seconds later. As she went over the Valkyrie shook out of stops a baby jib topsail. The Defender people were not satisfied with so small a sail on their outer stay, and spread a No. 2. The wind was then blowing about 5 miles an hour. There was something of a swell on the sea, but the water could not be called rough by any means.

VALKYRIE WEATHER TO A DOT,

And She Gives the Defender Men a Bad Pain for Awhile.

The weather conditions at this time were as nearly as possible perfect for the Valkyrie, and although held almost in the wind's eye she outfooted the Defender, which was not pointing as close as her opponent, either. And it was here that the Defender's friends began to feel bad, and looked upon the race as lost. The Defender went about first, followed immediately by the Valkyrie. The manœuvre did not help the Yankee boat, for the Valkyrie still outfooted and outpointed her. Seeing this the Defender was eased off a little and then began to catch up, but the Valkyrie followed suit and again maintained her lead.

Now the breeze freshened to about seven miles an hour. The Valkyrie on feeling the breeze again stood up high against it, while the full rap on the Defender was continued. It was a beautiful race up to this point. On the next tack the Valkyrie came about first, and the Defender followed her at once. With the seven-mile breeze the Defender held her own, and the Valkyrie attempted to cross her bows. In this she failed, and as she crossed the Defender line astern there was a big shrieking of American whistles.

The Valkyrie on finding that she had not yet gained enough to weather the Defender came back again to the starboard tack after 1 minute on the port. As she did so the Defender came about to port, and the Valkyrie followed. At 2 o'clock the contestants began a long beat to starboard. During this tack the breeze stiffened to about 8 mile an hour and with that increase the Defender began to overhaul the enemy. So easily did she overhaul the challenger that more than one observer remarked to his neigbor something to the effect that old Hank Haff had only been jollying his competitor all the time.

It was 2:55 when the Defender was on even terms with the Valkyrie. Thence she gradually forced ahead, and at 3:20 it was estimated that the Yankee boat was three lengths ahead and well to windward at that. The Defender was first to come around to starboard and head for the outer mark. This was at 3:25. When the Valkyrie came about, 15 seconds later, she was well away on the Defender's lee quarter. The breeze continued to blow at about 8 miles an hour from the southeast, and they come along at a pretty lively gait to round the buoy and square away for home.

The Defender passed first by 3 minutes and 23 seconds, a gain of 3 minutes and 27 seconds from the time of start. The few champions of the Valkyrie who were left said that their boat would overhaul the Defender on this broad reach home. But she did not. In all the reach the Defender continuously increased her lead over the Valkyrie and finished 8 minutes and 20 seconds ahead of her.

When the Defender crossed the finish line she was greeted with cannons, whistles, tin horns and the waving of handkerchiefs to an extent that entirely fitted the victory of a yacht which all experts agree was the fastest machine for her purposes that the world ever saw.

Late last evening the remeasurement was explained partly. It was done at the request of Lord Dunraven with the acquiescence of Mr. Iselin, but Dunraven's motive is not stated. The figures were not changed.

THAT DEMOCRATIC MONEY PLANK.

Reply to the Recent Statements of Patterson and Jones.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 9.—The recent statements of Thomas Patterson, of Colorado, and Colonel Jones, of Missouri, that the majority of the members of the committee on resolutions of the national Democratic convention of 1892 was in favor of the free coinage of silver is flatly denied by The Journal, which gives what it claims is the correct account of the deliberations of the committee. As the Journal is on intimate terms with Senator Vilas, who was a member of the committee on resolutions, the article in question is looked upon as a personal reply of the senator to the charges of Patterson and Jones. The article says: "Colonel Jones, to begin with, is totally wrong in his main statement. The money plank, as at first submitted, was not, as he avers, a straight-out bimetallic plank declaring for the free coinage of gold and silver on equal terms. Instead of that it was the Wisconsin platform, adopted at the convention which elected delegates to the national convention, May 4, 1892."

Coming to the question at issue in the committee, the article says that Patterson was most persistent in trying to get the word "free" inserted and contended that the meaning with that word in "was a coinage without charge for minting—freedom from exaction as gold had been made free in 1873. Of course in such a discussion no man would impute bad faith to another, and hence when the sound money members of the committee urged the other view they declared that they had no contention with reference to the mere trivialty of a charge for mining; that the controversy was over the question whether silver should be admitted to the mints for unlimited coinage at the demand of the owners, and for their benefit in the same manner as gold; and that by the use of the word "free" the platform would not be understood in the way the silver men argued, but the public would assume naturally that the purpose was to declare in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1."

Patterson did express himself as willing to omit a declaration in favor of any particular ratio, but he insisted on the introduction of the word "free." His argument was met by the insertion of the words in the resolution which are found there now as it was adopted, "without discriminating against either metal or charge for mintage." It is true that all the committee expressed themselves as not at all opposed to genuine bimetallism. At that time there was little opposition any where to bimetallism, and the leading men of the country believed that there could be a standard of value compounded of the two metals, both being admitted to coinage under proper restrictions and regulations of an international character by which their comparative values should be fixed.

SHOT OFF 600 POUNDS OF DYNAMITE.

Killed His Father, Mother and Brothers and Injured Three Others.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Sept. 9.—Edward Latshaw, sub-contractor on government work on the Mississippi, had 600 pounds of dynamite stored in the cellar under his house at Specht's Ferry, twelve miles north. His son was practicing shooting and missed the target, the bullet entering the cellar and firing the dynamite. The house was blown to splinters and the following killed: Edward Latshaw and his wife; Ray Latshaw, 12 years old; Mat Latshaw, 8 years; Hans Bjornstadt, of La Crosse.

The wounded are: Mat Faber, Wabasha, may die; Ed Bench, Lansing, eye knocked out and bruised; Mabel Latshaw, skull fractured. The dead were terribly mangled. A 4-year-old child in the party escaped unhurt. The glass in the buildings in the hamlet was all broken, and boats on the opposite side of the river considerably damaged.

Chicago Women Play Golf.

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont., Sept. 9.—The international golf tournament closed with the ladies' single competition. There were several compitors in this event, which finally simmered down to a contest between Mrs. Hobart Chatfield-Taylor, of Chicago, and Miss Geale, of Chicago. The struggle between these two was a notable one, Miss Geale finally winning by a score of 68 to 71.

No pains will be spared to make this demonstration complete in each individual case. Every patient who receives the treatment will receive, if possible, more earnest, careful and expensive care and treatment than if he were paying the usual fee. It is the success of the principle that inspires the effort and work in each case. Each case completely cured establishes the principle that this doctor has been trying to impress, that he can and does cure chronic diseases. He will take a genuine pride in making the cure and treatment in every case under this free offer, if it could be possible, even better than the regular fee. No matter what form of chronic desease you suffer, consult him.

A GENUINE OFFER—Bear in mind this a genuine offer. Inspired by right, with the hope that the many who need special treatment will avail themselves of this offering and rid themselves of the diseases that have troubled them for years.

MEN—Young men, middle-aged men, old men suffering from weakness, impaired memory, dizziness, loss of power, unpleasant dreams, blood poisoning, leakage, losses, etc., should not let this opportunity pass, as a trial treatment will satisfy even the most skeptical of his wonderful curative powers in these cases. Not one failure in every 400 cases treated the past year.

All treatment free. No charge for professional services. The patient required to pay nothing except cost of the medicines he uses. This applies to all who call, no matter what the nature of the malady.

TO HELP ALL.—Any chronic sufferer, whatever the nature of the disease, may call upon this doctor and get the best aid known to enlightened medicine at the actual cost of the medicines. It is the spirit and purpose of his visits to bring to the treatment and cure of chronic diseases generally the great advantages he possesses in successfully handling these stubborn, disorders so prolific of human misery and so destructive of human life.

PARLORS AT NACHUSA HOTEL, FROM 9 A. M. TO 8 P. M.

YUCCA

Dismal and desolate and gray,
Pale sage and dusty alkali,
The level prairie sweeps away
Unbroken to the dreary sky.

From sky to sky unbroken, save
For one long pile of rock and sand,
That seems the lone, neglected grave
Of some dead Titan of the land.

No life, but when in stormy flight
The dancing whirlwinds cloud the air,
Or starved gaunt wolves that prowl at night
Howl hideous prayers to famine there.

Yet see, on those forsaken wolds,
Glad sign of nature's sweet caress,
How fair and pure one flower unfolds
The glory of its loveliness.

A slender spire with pendent bells,
Clust'ring in ivory whiteness, hung,
Whence fragrant breath harmonious wells
Like dreamland melody unsung.

What waste so utterly forlorn
But bears the All Creator's sign?
What life so left to human scorn
It owns not something still divine?
—Francis Dana in Youth's Companion.

Oakey Hall's Famous Likeness.

The caricaturist who catches the expression of prominent men in public life always jumps at some peculiarity of feature and forever brings it out in his drawings. Every one remembers Thomas Nast's caricature of Oakey Hall when Oakey was the fighting mayor of New York. It was distinguished by a remarkable pair of eyeglasses which had a very downward set from his nose. Now, Hall never wore that pair of glasses but once in his life. His own fell and broke, and on his way to the city hall in the morning he stopped at the shop of an optician under the old St. Nicholas hotel to have them mended. "It will require two or three hours," the optician said. "I will lend you a pair till I can send yours down." Nast was waiting for Hall when he reached his office, and the first thing that struck him was the glasses, which were the most peculiar in shape he had ever seen. Hall's likeness in all of Nast's work never was able to get away from them. A person who recognized nothing else learned to recognize the glasses.—New York Press.

He Found It Desirable.

"Yes," said the patient pedestrian, "I find it desirable to walk to business every day."

"What for?"

"As a method of prolonging life."

"Ah, you need the exercise?"

"It isn't that. The only road I can take is a trolley road."—Washington Star.

RED, WHITE, BLUE.

Colors Donned by Louisville in Honor of the Vets.

CITY ABLAZE WITH "OLD GLORY."

Hues of the National Ensign Festoon the Town and Flutter in the Breeze Everywhere in Greeting to the Grand Army Boys—Prospects for a Record-Breaking Attendance—Feds and Confeds Fraternize—Arrival of Commander Lawler.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 9.—Visitors are pouring into the Falls City from the south as well as from the north. Veterans who attended former national encampments of the G. A. R. say they never saw such a large attendance so early in the great reunion week. All railways have extra trains, which are heavily loaded. Many Sons of Veterans are here en route to their national encampment at Knoxville. There are others here who never attended these encampments before, and who are now en route to the reunion of the army of the Tennessee at Cincinnati the first of next week, and to the dedication of the national park on the battlefield of Chickamauga the last of next week. This is the third national encampment ever held south of Mason and Dixon's line, the other two having been held at Baltimore and Washington, and it so happens that three other great events elsewhere next week bring many through Louisville now.

One-Time Enemies Talk Things Over.

There is no doubt of the fulfillment of the general prediction that there will be more Union veterans together this week than ever before. The losses by death increase, but the desire to visit old battlefields and confer with the Confederate veterans—who are doing everything to entertain their northern visitors—has attracted thousands who have not heretofore attended a national encampment. The Confederate veterans are here in force. The G. A. R. comrades hunt up members of their old regiments and brigades and then meet Confederates belonging to regiments and brigades that opposed them, when they confer about how things went on both sides.

Ablaze with the National Colors.

The decorations may have been richer in triumphal arches and other designs at one or two other encampments, but at none was a city so profusely or generally decorated with American flags as is Louisville. Its business blocks, public and private buildings and homes are literally covered with festoons of red, white find blue, with the American flag as the center-piece of every conceivablo design. The flag is the thing that is displayed everywhere, and no city ever had more bunting out than this city shows. The distinctive feature of the decorations is the use of the red, white and blue to the exclusion of every other color, even the evergreen arches.

Union Leaders Pictured Everywhere.

The portraits of all Union generals are displayed in unlimited profusion. The Confederate veterans participated in all this decorating as well as in the entertaining. The words of Watterson about this occasion have been heard all over the country, but the deeds of Haldeman will be known only by those who see The Courier-Journal building, which is completely enveloped in decorations of the American colors in the most artistic designs.

JERSEY MEN FIRST TO ARRIVE.

Commander-in-Chief Lawler Follows Soon and Receives a Salute.

The Kentucky posts are busy escorting visiting comrades from the railway stations, and the Confederate veterans participate most heartily in escorting and welcoming visitors. The first post to arrive in a body was No. 39, of Newark, N. J. Commander-in-Chief Lawler arrived this morning at 7:30, escorted by Columbia post, of Chicago. On his arrival a salute was fired and he was escorted to the Galt House by the Louisville and other Kentucky posts and the citizens' committee.

Senior Vice Commander Birchfield and the Pennsylvania posts were received with another salute and escort parade at noon today, and Rear Admiral F. B. Allen, commanding the naval veterans, will be similarly welcomed this afternoon. The arrangements are complete for the guidance and entertainment of visitors, but none more than those of Chairman Robert Brown for the work of newspaper men at press headquarters. The St. Paul and Denver delegations will arrive today to open quarters for the contest for the next encampment.

There are receptions to Commander Lawler and staff to interest the veterans today, and the flagship and other ships of the fleet will be put in commission at 4 p. m. followed tonight by the dog-watch of all the veterans, and by campfires. The parade of the naval veterans occurs tomorrow morning and of the G. A. R. posts on Wednesday morning.

The Boys Are Marching.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 9.—Fully 5,000 people passed through Union station last night to attend the G. A. R. annual encampment to be held at Louisville. The railroads have made preparations to carry over 20,000 to Louisville.

Hoisted Old Glory on the Battlefield.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 9.—The national flag was raised yesterday with appropriate ceremonies in the presence of several thousand people at Camp Daniel S. Lamont, Chickamauga-Chattanooga, National military park.

Captured a Much-Wanted Crook.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Sept. 9.—The postoffice swindler held under arrest by Chief of Police Hinsman as Hogan, on examination before United States Commissioner Silsby turns out to be the much-wanted crook, Allen, wanted for burglarizing the postoffice at Springfield, Ills., and who recently escaped from Ludlow street jail in New York.

Only One Man for the Women.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 9.—The German Methodist Episcopal conference by a vote of 95 to 1 defeated the Baltimore amendment which provides for the admission of women as delegate to the general conference. The member who alone favored the women was Rev. Severinghaus, of Huntingburg, Ind.

Illinois Normal School Located.

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 9.—The board of trustees of the Eastern Illinois State normal has decided to locate the normal school at Charleston, Coles county.

GOT AWAY WITH FORTY THOUSAND.

Adams Express at Terre Haute, Ind., Loses a Pot of Money.

TERRE HAUTE, Sept. 9.—J. D. Farden, the cashier of the Adams Express company, and J. R. Barnett, city ticket agent of the Vandalia, have disappeared; also a package of $16,000 deposited by Revenue Collector Jump for shipment to the Cincinnati sub-treasury. Farden gave a receipt for the $16,000. He has been a pension examiner and was stationed four years in Indianapolis under Harrison's administration. He is 38 years old and has a wife and three children. Barnett was in the steal with Cashier Farden, and the police have authorized the statement that the amount will probably reach $40,000 and that the two men literally cleaned the office of four days' receipts. The affair has caused an intense sensation.

EMPORIA VISITED BY A CYCLONE.

State Normal School Partly Wrecked and Other Damage Done.

EMPORIA, Kan., Sept. 9.—Emporia and vicinity was visited by a tornado about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The worst damage was done at the state normal school grounds. The new east wing of the main building was reduced to a mass of ruins. This wing was recently built at a cost of $50,000 and was but lately dedicated. The roof was rolled up like paper and carried off half a block.

The damage at the school grounds is estimated at $10,000. Considerable other damage was done down town. Clark's wholesale furniture store was unroofed and the stock of goods badly damaged. But meagre reports have been received from the surrounding country, where it is feared the damage has been great.

At Hartford, twelve miles southeast of here, several houses are reported blown down and one woman, Miss Bessie Henry, is dangerously injured. At Neosha Rapids a church, several buildings and a livery stable were destroyed. A Santa Fe bridge with 1,000 feet of track is also washed away near Reading.

BENNY M'KEE SAVES HIS COUSIN.

Gen. Harrison's Granddaughter Comes Near Drowning at Old Forge.

OLD FORGE, N. Y., Sept. 9.—There came very near being a drowning accident at Dodd camp. Mrs. Russell B. Harrison's little daughter and Benny and May McKee were playing about the dock at the camp when the Harrison child slipped and fell into the water. Benny McKee saw her fall and ran to her rescue. He held her hand until General Harrison came, having heard the screams of the children, and rescued his grand daughter.

Full oft with starch and gloss serene,
The linen collar starts the morn;
Full oft at noontime it is seen
All wilted, wrinkled and forlorn.

That's what you must expect of such a collar; it's the linen of it. The stand-up collars won't stand up, and the turn-down collars will wilt down. The easy, cheap, and pleasant way out of this is to wear "CELLULOID" COLLARS AND CUFFS. These goods are made by covering linen collars or cuffs on both sides with "CELLULOID," thus making them strong and durable, and waterproof, not affected by heat or moisture. There are no other waterproof goods made this way, consequently none that can wear so well. When soiled simply wipe them off with a wet cloth. Every piece of the genuine is stamped like this:

—It has been noticed that many oak trees and a number of evergreen trees in and about Dixon have died during the past summer and we see by our exchanges that this misfortune is not confined to this vicinity. The Morrison Sentinel says that a drive through the country reveals the fact that many trees in the woods are dying, and a close investigation shows that they are mostly red oak, the roots of which do not strike very deep into the earth. The droughts of the last four years as well as the hail storms at the beginning of the season, have been too much for these trees.

—A notice from A. F. Moore, of Polo, President of the Illinois Morgan Horse Breeders' Association, states that the third annual meeting of the Illinois Morgan Horse Breeders Association will be held in the Dome building, State Fair grounds, Springfield, a 2 p. m. on Tuesday, September 24, 1895. There will also be an evening session at the same place. Morgan horses will be exhibited for premiums in the forenoon of the same day. Joseph Battell, of Vermont, President of the National Morgan Horse Breeders' Association, has promised to be present. Farmers are invited to come and see the horses and get acquainted with Morgan Horse men.

—W. C. Jones, this morning opened up business in his new store on Depot avenue, West End, with a brisk trade. The store is an elegant two story brick with plate glass and galvanized iron front, and covers ground space fifty by ninety feet, making it one of the largest if not the very largest store in the city. The upper story is a fine hall, and the lower story is undivided save by a row of iron pillars, and makes a large and elegant business room. We understand that Mr. Jones, who some years ago started a grocery in a limited way, and has steadily increased his trade, will eventually conduct in the new building a regular department store, introducing various lines of merchandise as the trade requires. We are especially glad to note the prosperity of Mr. Jones in this city which has always been his home. It shows that true worth and business ability is appreciated.

—Charles Crooker, who died at Grand Detour Friday morning and was buried in Oakwood cemetery, Dixon. Saturday by Dixon Post G. A. R., was born in Windsor county, New York, fifty-two years ago. When a child of four years his parents removed to Grand Detour, in 1847, where they remained eight years, and in 1855 moved to Pawpaw, this county. When but a lad of sixteen, Charles entered the U. S. army in Co. I, 55th Ills. Volunteers, and was so terribly wounded at Shiloh that much of the time since he has been a great sufferer and an almost helpless cripple, having been subjected to unnumbered surgical operations with but little relief. A part of the time his residence has been in Chicago; but recently he wandered back to the home of his early childhood and took up his residence in Grand Detour. At the time of his death he was a member of George A. Custer Post G. A. R. of Chicago. In compliance with his repeated request he was interred in the G. A. R. lot of Dixon Post, of which he was formerly a member. His mother, who resides in Chicago; and his brother, Lucius Crooker, Esq., of Mendota, were in attendance at the funeral.

—Our police officers very often receive complaints that girls are being insulted by remarks from boys as they walk upon the streets, evenings. The officers have kept a pretty close watch over cases of this kind, and have come to the conclusion that in most cases the fault lies with the girls. The fact is, the "coming woman" is coming a little too fast, and is not quite careful enough as to the manner of her coming. There are a class of girls, growing rapidly larger, who, without immoral designs, have very loose ideas of propriety. By promenading the public streets, evenings, they seek to attract, rather than avoid the attention of the boys and young men on the street corners, who are there on the lookout for "fun." Some even make reply to the too familiar remarks of the loafers with whom they are almost unacquainted. Under the circumstances the boys sometimes accost or make passing remarks about girls who have a right to feel insulted. It would be much better and safer if parents and guardians would see that their daughters are at home and not on the streets after dark. The free and easy sort of life our American young people lead has its advantages perhaps, but it also has its drawbacks. If it develops an air of independence among our young women, it detracts from that modesty of deportment which is perhaps her greatest safeguard, because it instinctively wins the respect of the opposite sex; for while the young man may enjoy the society of the girl who is just a little "loud" in her deportment, he does not really respect the girl with whom he can flirt, and his behavior shows it. The boys who insult girls on the street or elsewhere should be punished; but the girls whose behavior encourage such insults should also be taken care of.

Rival of the Silkworm.

A new kind of caterpillar appeared in Bismark, N. D., and the region thereabout recently, and began to denude the shade trees of foliage, after the manner of the pest that have lately afflicted this city and vicinity. Some one noticed that the worm spun a cocoon of unusually strong texture, and a citizen sent a cocoon to a friend in the east who owns a silk-weaving mill. The silk weaver reported to the Bismark man that the thread in the cocoon was almost as strong as silk and of similar texture, and that if he had a handful of cocoons he would weave a handkerchief from them. Specimens of the worms and of the cocoons have been sent to Washington for the government experts, and the North Dakotans are thinking perhaps what they took to be a pest is a valuable gift from nature.

Things seems to be Coming Our Way.

The great Standard Oil Company talk of establishing a depot for their product near this city. Agents of that Company are here today and at the present writing are looking for a proper location of an immense warehouse. The place that is particularly desired is a piece of land owned by the Dement estate, near the upper ice house, east of our city, and representatives from the Standard Oil Company are looking over the ground as we go to press. We understand that it is settled that Dixon will be made a distributing point for the product of this great company.

A Rebuke from the Pulpit.

Preaching in Westminster Abbey, Canon Wilberforce told a good story of the celebrated Welsh preacher Christmas Evans, who dared publicly to express his thankfulness for Jenny Lind's beautiful singing. A member of his congregation, a strait-laced Calvinist, standing on the top steps of the pulpit, asked the preacher whether a man dying at one of Jenny Lind's concerts would go to heaven. "Sir," replied Mr. Evans, "a christian will go to heaven wherever he dies, but a fool remains a fool even on the pulpit steps." Even the sober Abbey congregation could hardly stifle its enjoyment of this repartee.

Facts on the Money Question.

Our mint was established in 1792. From 1792 to 1834 gold produced, $14,000,000; so little silver, no report made of it. From 1834 to 1848 gold $14,526,769; ssilver $400,000. From 1848 to 1861 gold $651,000,000, silver $1,250,000. From 1844 to 1857 the production of silver was $50,000 per annum, ie 1858 it increased to $500,000. From 1861 to 1873 gold $553,750,000; silver $152,500,000. Silver produced in 1860 $150,000; in 1873 $35,750,000. Gold total, from 1792 to 1873 $1,229,286,769; silver, total $154,150,000. In 1873 gold surpassed silver $250,000, in 1874 silver surpassed gold $3,800,000, the silver being $37,300,000, gold $33,500,000. From 1792 to 1873 gold surpassed silver $1,075,136,769. Since '73 silver has surpassed gold by over $345,499,000. In '93 the production of gold was $35,955,000; of silver $77,576,000. Thus you see in a single year silver surpassing gold $41,621,000. I am giving only cold facts and will not insult your intelligence by thinking I can construct an argument as forcible and conclusive as these facts.

Fatal Accident.

Henry Welch, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Welch, living east of the Grand Detour plow shops, met with a fatal accident yesterday in a manner which ought to be a warning to other young children who have been in the habit of playing around the cars. The north bound freight was moving in the yard, and the child, as he had seen others do, made a grab for the lower step of the ladder of a freight car, to catch a ride. But he was too short to reach the object aimed at, and fell. His clothing caught on one of the wheels or boxes, evidently, for he was dragged about 200 yards over the rough ground bestrewn with cinders, before he was discovered. The skin of his stomach was abrased and terribly lacerated, while one leg was crushed and torn near the body. Drs. Paine and Miller were sent for, but could afford but little relief, the lad being too weak to sustain an operation. He died this morning at 8:30 and will be buried tomorrow. He was one of a family of eight children.

Safer than a Lightening Rod.

They are well named "safeties"—that is to say bicycles with pneumatic tires merit their name. According to the Scientific American they are the safest places on earth or in the air during a thunder storm. This is all on account of their pneumatic tires. These being composed of India rubber filled with dry air constitute a perfect insulator—impervious to the attacks of the fluid.

Hereafter all persons with electric nerves will discard the discredited feather bed when a thunder storm threatens and take to the flying wheel—not to fly from the most glorious of heavenly spectacles but to enjoy the splitting clouds and the warring elements. While the chance of the ordinary biped being struck by lightening is as one in ten million that of the bicycle in action is as one in a billion—long measure.

Women who have regarded the bicycl as an invention of the evil one, a shock to modesty and an apostle of the hideous bloomer, will find in its lightning proof character a haven of refuge from those nervous terrors that distract the fair and rob Nature of his just adoration.

—It has been discovered through what is considered trustworthy documents, that Jefferson Davis and Ulysses S. Grant were descended from the same great grandfather. This ancestor was William Simpson, who came to this country from the north of Ireland in the middle of the last century, settled in Pennsylvania and fought in the continental army. His son John was Gen. Grant's granfather, and his daughter Ann, who married John Davis, was the grandmother of the Confederate leader.

Do not be misled by carefully worded ads about the railways of war times.

You want to ride in vestibuled limited trains, on a fine, smooth roadbed, ballasted with stone, laid with heavy steel rails, equipped with every appliance for safety! You want a comfortable and easy journey!

Those Vanished Years.

GRAND DETOUR, ILL., Sept. 5, 1895.

My eighty-first anniversary dawned on me in Grand Detour. With my first waking came the memory that eighty-one years ago I began to live. I revisited my birthplace in the land of the rising sun. I renewed the memory of my father and mother, when they were young; and as they grew old I remember that I thought they were very aged when they were much younger than I am. I did not realize that I too must be getting old; but somehow I could not feel so. I gathered my brothers and sisters around me as when we were children; I wandered over the old fields, waded in the streams, went nutting, drove the cows to pasture, went to the country school, heard many voices long silent. I stood by some little mounds that were way back in those early days that made early childhood serious and brought the sense of awful mystery that has only grown deeper with the flight of years. Do you believe it, I can hear the old sounds—the chirping of the crickets, the crowing of chanticleer on the neighboring hills, the birds in the thicket, the cawing of the crows when they were about to make a raid on the farmer's cornfield, the clear singing of voices in the early morn, the lowing of the cows winding down the lane, the mournful cooing of the doves from the boughs of the old maple tree. I see, too, the same old objects; the dewy clover of the spring, the gathering fog on the top of the distant Green Mountains, the yellow leaves of autumn strewn upon the ground, the vernal showers, the new fallen snow, with the first deer tracks, the hush of the Sabbath Back over more than half a century come the voices and the pictures bequeathed to me from that far-off time. Then, as I lay on my bed looking through the window on the morning sun, the time lengthens. After childhood came the trooping recollections of mature youth and early manhood, still fresh and dewy with unchilled affections, but softened with the shadows of responsibility too great for inexperience. The kaleidoscope turned and the picture changed. The old home faded out, the dear old home, never more to return. The group was scattered. With blessings and prayers from father and mother, and sobs of brother and sisters; I was the first one to break the circle. One September morning, fifty-one years ago, I mounted my wagon and rode away. They all stood at the door and saw me go. How my heart swelled as I started to say good bye. It swells just so now as the memory comes back, through it has been so many times seared with sorrow. I rode away, only to return at long intervals to witness the ravage of the years, to see how father and mother grow old and the children's forms changed. Then another home, the young bride, the happy bride-groom.

During the day I was led to think on the changes which have occurred in the eighteen years that I have lived; not in my own little world alone, but in the great outside world. The review is amazing. There were no steamships; no railways; no illuminations of cities with gas, petrolum or electric light; no photography; no telegraphy; no labor-saving machinery of any importance. China and Japan were closed nations. Indiana was the western boundary of civilization. The states beyond the Mississippi were the possessions of savages. Slavery was common in the four quarter of the world. The population of the United States was than nine millions. There was not a city in America of 100,000 inhabitants. Cincinnatti had less than 10,000 in it. There was but one log structure (a fort) where Chicago now stands. Michigan was populated with Indians. Illinois was the pasture grounds of vast herds of buffalo. There was not even a stage between the east and west to reach the seaboard. The mails were carried on horseback. The Indians were still a terror as far east as Ohio. The children were taught to hate the Red Coats (English) as the great enemy of their country. Honesty was a virtue.
